

KŘEŠŤANSKÉ SPOLEČENSTVÍ
TRINITY PRAHA

A New Name – August 2024 Update

We are pleased to share that our Prague church, Trinity Christian Community of Prague, is finally registered. This enables us to invite more missionary team members and host various equipping events and conferences. However, we pronounce our church name a bit differently from the English version.

You might have noticed in the header of this update we are now Křesťanské Společenství Trinity Praha, or closer to Old Church Slavonic ...

KŘEŠŤANSKÉ SPOLEČENSTVÍ TRINITY PRAHA

The ninth-century Byzantine missionary brothers Cyril and Methodius are regarded as the "Apostles to the Slavs" because they knew the importance of translating the gospel in the people's language. These forerunners developed the basis for what is now many Slavic language groups. The gospel work of Cyril and Methodius is the common missional denominator in all Slavic languages. In this vein, we have established a new church in Prague with a Czech name that Czech pastors and missionaries have vetted.

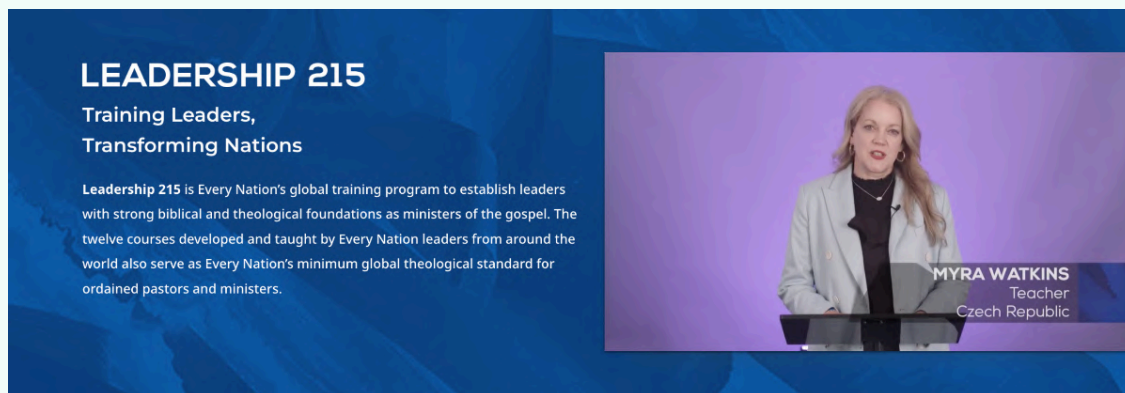

It was bittersweet to have our last Doctor of Ministry lectures

My Seminary cohort comprises nine people from our ministry and other women and men worldwide.

Speaking of the early church, we just returned to Prague from the US where I finished my last seminary intensive at Asbury, and I am already in the books for my fall class, which looks at the discipleship methods of Cyril, Methodius, and many others. This is also a critical part of my dissertation as I endeavor to apply principles of missionary development to similar modern contexts. This will be my last year of classes, but I have another two years before I finish my dissertation.
